

The next house he came to was cosy and bright,
It held the three bears all day and all night.
They were fed up and bored now of being shut in,
So a friend had sent them a game to begin.

The bears were delighted and started the game,
The postman looked in and wondered the name
Of the sender, he asked and was then full of shocks
As the bears shouted back, it's from Goldilocks!

